Tom Cormack
Executive Secretary

History Staff Bi-Weekly

On 23 January, Susan Falb, recently appointed to fill the new position of FBI historian, came to see Ken and [redacted]. She was interested primarily in how other government historians handle the professional aspects of their role.

STAT

Dr. Mabon, a State Department historian, came in to read three of our histories dealing with Vietnam. This was for background use only. Two other State historians came in during this period to go through the CIA documents they ordered from other repositories to order to screen out those for which they do not intend to request clearance to publish.

[redacted] took a call from the [redacted] group servicing the GAO investigators. This time the request was for an unclassified summary of Agency operations and background; she referred them to the report of the Senate Select Committee.

[redacted] called with a proposal to include the DDP Station Histories in a bibliographic guide she was preparing for CI researches. [redacted] discussed with her the resources that the History Staff could make available and suggested that she pass us the draft of her statement for our review and revision. This has been done.

STAT

[redacted] interviewed Dr. Herbert Scoville on 27 January and he has set up an interview for next week with [redacted] who worked on the Corona program on the west coast as an Air Force officer.

STAT

[redacted] has submitted his book review to Studies in Intelligence and it has been enthusiastically received there.

STAT

[redacted] received notification of a security violation for leaving the ribbon in her typewriter. The ribbon is being evaluated to see if there is anything classified on it.
